THE RUSSIAN FEDERATION

The Russian Federation (Russia) is the world's largest country in area. It extends from the Arctic Ocean to the Black Sea, and from the Baltic Sea to the Pacific Ocean. It is located in Europe and Asia. Its total area is over 17 million square kilometers. Russia borders many countries, such as Finland, the Ukraine, the Baltic States, China, Mongolia, and others.

The surface of Russia is various. We can see lowlands and highlands, forests and wide grasslands on its territory. The Russian Federation is situated on two plains. The longest mountain chains are the Urals, which separate Europe and Asia, the Caucasus, the Altai. There are many rivers and lakes in our country. Major rivers include the Volga in Europe, the Yenisei, the Ob, the Lena in Asia. Lake Baikal in Siberia is the world's deepest lake.

There are different climatic zones on the vast area of our country. In the north, it is very cold, even in summer. The central part of the country has a mild climate. In the south, it is warm, even in winter. The climate of Siberia is continental: summers are hot and dry, winters are very cold.

Russia has abundant natural resources, which, besides large areas of forests, vast fertile soils, and a great water supply, include large deposits of gas, coal, iron ore, and etc. Three quarters of the minerals wealth are concentrated in Siberia and the Far East.

The population of Russia is over 150 million people. Most of Russia's people (over 80 per cent) are ethnic Russians, but more than 100 minority nationalities also live in our country. The European part of the country is densely populated. Most of the people (about 70 per cent) prefer to live in cities, towns, and their outskirts. The official language of the country is Russian.

The head of the state is the President, who is the command-er-in-chief of the armed forces. The President appoints the ministers, but they must be approved by the Federal Assembly. The head of the government is the Prime Minister.

The Russian flag was adopted in 1991. It has three horizontal stripes which symbolize: white — the earth, blue — the sky, red — the freedom. Besides, the Russian flag, there is another national symbol of Russia — a two-headed eagle.

Ключи,

Japan is the world's leading fishing nation. Its annual catch is more than 10 million tons. The Japanese people are also among the world's leading consumers of seafood. The catch reached 12.8 million tons in 1984 but has slacked off since then. In 1990 it was slightly more than 11 million tons. This includes offshore and coastal catches, deep-sea fishing, and fish farm production. The greatest tonnage comes from offshore fishing. There were about 416,000 registered fishing vessels in 1990. Japan also leads the world in the value of its fish catch, estimated at more than 12 billion dollars a year, and is second in tonnage.

About one fourth of all Japanese workers—12.4 million—are union members.

Meat production grew from 2.2 million tons in 1975 to 3.5 million tons in 1990.

In 1945, as a result of war damage, production stood at 30 percent of what it had been in 1935. By 1951 it was at 114 percent of the 1930 level, and it continued to grow at more than 9 percent each year in the 1950s. Through the 1960s the economy grew at more than 10 percent a year. During the 1970s, because of the huge oil price increases and worldwide recession, productivity increases dropped to under 5 percent a year. Because of the oil shocks, Japan reduced its dependence on oil as a source of energy for manufacturing and electricity. In the 1980s, with recovery under way, productivity improved. By 1990 the growth rate had reached 5.5 percent before starting to decline.

The volume of imported oil was cut from 272 million kiloliters in 1979 to 206 million kiloliters in 1989. (A kiloliter is 1,000 liters, about 264 gallons.)

By 1994 there were about 1.5 million retail and more than 429,000 wholesale trade establishments.

Japan ranks third in the world both in electric power output and in installed capacity. There were 3,537 power plants in 1990. Hydroelectric power made up almost two thirds of the total electric supply in the early 1950s.

Задание 1. Переведите и подберите заголовки к абзацам.

Turkmenistan specializes in the extraction of oil and natural gas. Turkmenistan's underground resources in the western plain and those underwater along the Caspian Sea include extensive reserves of oil and natural gas, as well as deposits of mirabilite, iodine, bromine, sulfur, potassium, and salt.

Petroleum deposits and the associated oil industry are centred in the Caspian plain in western Turkmenistan. Turkmenistan oil is of a very high grade, both as a fuel and as a raw material for chemical production. A network of pipelines links natural gas deposits in western Turkmenistan with Ashgabat, Türkmenbashy (Krasnovodsk), Cheleken, and the central regions of the republic.

The raising of Karakul sheep, horses, and camels contribute most to the agricultural economy. The Karakul breed accounts for seventh-tenths of all sheep in the republic. Arabian one-humped camels are indispensable in desert areas for transporting sheepherders, for drawing water from deep desert wells, and as a source of wool, milk, and meat.

Turkmenistan leads Central Asia as a producer of silkworm cocoons. Silk-winding and silk-weaving mills, as well as cotton, cotton-wool mills are important. The warm climate there grows medium-staple cotton, lucerne, sweet sorghum, beans, kenaf, sesame, grapes, vegetables, and melons, and nurtures cattle and silkworms.

Serious problems, however, threaten the prosperity of this region. The disastrous decline in the Amu Darya's outflow, the effects of extreme pollution from pesticide and chemical runoff, and soil and water salinization resulting from the desiccation and shrinkage of the Aral Sea threaten to ruin the Amu Darya delta as an agricultural producer for Turkmenistan.

The radical reconstruction of the republic's economy was completed by 1930. Old branches (cotton ginning, oil pressing, and carpet making) were retained, and new ones (heavy and light industry, such as food processing) emerged. The republic's engineering and metal-processing enterprises include shops for repairing diesel locomotives, railcars, and agricultural machinery. Plants in Ashgabat and Mary produce oil-field and refinery equipment.

Significant in the chemical industry are the Chärjew superphosphate plant, mirabilite from the vicinity of the Garabogazköl (Kara-Bogaz-Gol), sulfur from Gaurdak, iodine and bromine factories on the Cheleken Peninsula, and the production of detergents at the Turkmenbashi oil refinery.

Thermal power stations using liquid fuel operate at Nebitdag, Ashgabat, Büzmeyin (Bezmein), and Türkmenbashy, while a station at Mary burns natural gas. Hydroelectric plants include the Hindu Kush plant, as well as plants at Kaushtubent and at the Dashköpri Reservoir on the Morghāb River.

Artificial furs, leather footwear, and sewn goods also are produced. Domestic industries, especially carpet and rug making, occupy an important place in the republic's economy. Turkmen carpets and rugs, long renowned for their durability and unique designs, are exported to more than 50 countries.

The food industry's most important branches include those producing vegetable oil, processing fish and meat, grinding flour, and making wine. Turkmenistan exports oil, butter, wine, fish, and salt to nearby countries.

Задание 1. Read the text. (Прочитайте текст)

Business is an organized approach to providing customers with the goods and services they want. The word business also refers to an organization that provides these goods and services. Most businesses seek to make a profit — that is, they aim to achieve revenues that exceed the costs of operating the business. Prominent examples of for-profit businesses include Mitsubishi Group, General Motors Corporation, and Royal Dutch/Shell Group. However, some businesses only seek to earn enough to cover their operating costs. Commonly called nonprofits, these organizations are primarily nongovernmental service providers. Examples of nonprofit businesses include such organizations as social service agencies, foundations, advocacy groups, and many hospitals. Business plays a vital role in the life and culture of countries with free-market economies. In free-market systems, prices and wages are primarily determined by competition, not by governments. Businesses provide just about anything consumers want or need, including basic necessities such as food and housing, luxuries such as whirlpool baths and wide-screen televisions, and even personal services such as caring for children and finding companionship.

Tema3.4 Bank accounts

The most common activity of banks is the collection of money through various types of deposit accounts, such as checking accounts. Most people and companies pay their bills through checking accounts. A check is a written instruction from the depositor to the bank to pay the person or business named on the check using money from the depositor's account. That person or business can then deposit the check in another bank or cash it to receive the money it represents. Banks provide monthly statements to holders of checking accounts so they can keep records of their check transactions. Some banks require a fee for opening a checking account. Others charge fees if the account balance (the amount of money in the account) drops below a certain dollar amount.

Another type of bank account is a savings account. Savings accounts allow their owners to store money in the bank and earn a small amount of interest. Interest is a percentage of money that the bank pays an account holder for keeping money in the bank. The interest rate, or the percentage amount, changes based on the type of savings account or on the state of the country's economy. The owner of a savings account can withdraw, or take out, money from the account as needed.

Some types of bank accounts combine the features of checking and savings. Certain checking accounts earn interest, for example. However, the account holder often must keep a higher minimum balance in the account.
